

Rubiaceae is the fourth largest family of flowering plants (angiosperms). It includes about 13500 species in 611 genera with a global distribution. Leaves are simple and opposite with stipules. The most important commercial crop in this family is coffee.