

ONAGRACEAE FAMILY

Known as the willow herb or evening primrose family. It is reasonably large consisting of some 650 species in 17 genera. Plants in this family are characterised by bright flowers usually with four sepals and four petals. Leaves are typically opposite or whorled. Species range from herbs to shrubs and trees occurring throughout the world in all types of environments.